Subject: Ruling...

Hi judge,

I have been following the Microsoft case from abroad and I must agree with the critics: the way justice works in the USA is not very clear. Guilty; split up; no split up and in fact a bonus being a con. It is true that Microsoft is what it is today due to his illegal behavior. The way your president became a president was distasteful for any democracy and especially for the biggest in the world.

There should be a fair sanction not only to prevent it from happening again but also for the fact that it happened and due to it people lost their jobs and perhaps even worse. No one can turn this back again, but these people finally got the law on their side during the first verdict and I think the law should not let them down.

Regards and a fair ruling,

Roger
